

4th Colorado River Basin Water Transactions Workshop

October 22-24, 2019

High Country Conference Center -1899 Ballroom
201 West Butler Avenue
Flagstaff, AZ 86001

Agenda

Desired Goals and Outcomes

- Knowledge sharing regarding the key challenges and opportunities to foster a more sustainable Colorado River, including new perspectives
- Trust building within the CO River Basin NGO water transactions community to strengthen relationships and opportunities for greater collective progress
- New content to help our work continue to evolve and remain relevant moving forward

Agenda

MONDAY, OCTOBER 21:

5:00pm: Informal Dinner (Beaver Street Brewery, 11 S. Beaver Street, Flagstaff, AZ)
If you arrive in Flagstaff by air arrive on Monday, join us for dinner at Beaver Street Brewery. We have tables reserved under "River Network" and dinner is on your own.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22:

7:00am: Breakfast (Dairy Inn - 300 South Milton Road, Flagstaff, AZ (or on your own))

8:15am: Introduction and Meeting Goals - Nicole SB (River Network)
Goals for the meeting and highlights of the agenda. Expectations for participant engagement. Introductions.

9:45am: The Evolution of Water Transactions - Ted Kowalick (Walton Family Foundation) and Andrew Purley (ANP Insights)
How we work on environmental water transactions within the Colorado River Basin has evolved over the last ten years. How has this field changed and what has enabled this transformation? How are water transactions different today? What's next?

9:45am: A Bright Spot: Demand Management and the Role of NGOs - Mary Kelly (CK Bluebird) and Susan Martin (Martin & McCoy)
With climate change and the aridification of the Colorado River Basin, demand management and water markets could be an important tool in moving towards a resilient Colorado River. As the Upper and Lower Basins investigate their Demand Management programs, what is the role of NGOs?